RELATIVE TO UNEMPLOYMENT
RELIEF FUND

On motion of Mr. Bradley, the following communication was ordered printed in the Journal:

Federal Emergency Relief Administration, Walker-Johnson Building,
1734 New York Avenue, N. W.

Washington, August 30, 1934.

Hon. Rolland Bradley, House of Representatives, Austin, Texas.

My Dear Representative Bradley:
This is in regard to your letter of August 17 to Mr. Corrington Gill. I am enclosing a table showing the sources of unemployment relief funds for the State of Texas through June, 1934.

There have been variations throughout the country from month to month in the contributions from the State and local sources for unemployment relief. The State of Texas did nothing in 1933, but of course, had funds available in the current year. Some of the States which had contributed nothing up to the present time are about to put in quite ample funds. There has been generally an increase in funds from counties during the last three months or four months.

Naturally there can be no absolute measuring stick for insuring the same degree of financial contributions from the States. We have to take into consideration the financial status of the State, the legal and constitutional limitations, and other such factors which affect the ability of the State to contribute.

We have recently brought in several specialists in State and municipal finance who will comb carefully the ability of States to pay. You may be sure that this Administration will continue to exert every possible pressure to secure more funds from the States.

Sincerely yours,
AUBREW WILLIAMS,
Assistant Administrator.

REMARKS OF HON. JOHN N. THOMAS

On motion of Mr. Turlington, the following remarks of Hon. John N. Thomas were ordered printed in the Journal:

House of Representatives,
State of Texas

Austin, Texas, November 10, 1934.

Mr. Speaker, Members of the House: As I appear before you on this, the last day of the Forty-third Session, it is with some degree of sadness, and always has been when we come to the closing hour of our Sessions, and especially at this time, when I am retiring. But notwithstanding all of this, I want to say that it brings me a great deal of satisfaction and pleasure to have served with you in this body.

In commemoration and honor to the Members of this House that have given their lives in service for so many years, namely, Judge Goodman, Senator Weinert, Harry Graves, Senator McGregor, and many others, I have learned to love and to appreciate and honor them for their untiring efforts and energies. Always voting for the wishes and principles that come before the body with a sincerity of heart and of patriotic love for their district and State, I feel it a great honor to serve with men of this distinction.

To the younger Members of the Forty-third, permit me to say that I have prized your friendship highly and have admired your ability, and when I think of the wonderful opportunities and the possibilities that await you of a greater service, it thrills me with joy. I will always cherish our association and friendship in the coming years of my life, and I am looking forward through the coming years and shall rejoice in the success of the brilliantly prepared young Members of the Forty-third Legislature. And if I do not in the future learn of great promotion, I shall be somewhat disappointed.

In my conclusion, I want to express my thoughts in regard to our social relation to the Speaker and his good wife, for their kind and courteous way that they have treated us as we labored with them. Also permit me to say that I appreciate the employes of this body, from the smallest boys that have been so faithful and so attentive to our needs and accommodations, up to the young lady stenographers that have been so kind and so willing to assist us in every way. And my very best wishes for each and everyone as we have labored together as one great family in our co-operation for the best interests of our State. Let us all continue to be faithful and loyal to our State and Nation.

And in behalf of my successor, I want to say that I hope that he may be able to render his district and State a greater service than I have been able to render. May we all, as we go out from here, realize that we should be loyal to our people, loyal to our State and Nation and have that loyalty that at all times we are striving for. Be true and patriotic citizens with a loyalty to one another with a willingness to serve, and as we come down through the years, may we feel that obligation and allegiance that we owe as individuals to one another and to our State and to our Government and to the One that holds the destiny of individuals, State and Nation, in His hands. And may we continue to co-operate for the very best interests of our great Nation throughout the balance of our days.

With the very best wishes for each and everyone, good-by and good luck.

Very sincerely,

JOHN N. THOMAS.

REMARKS OF HON. J. H. FISHER

On motion of Mr. Scott, the following remarks of Hon. J. H. Fisher were ordered printed in the Journal:

Mr. Speaker and Members of the House, it is with pleasure that I now tell you good-by, and wish to thank every Member of this House for your kindness to me, and especially those who communicated with me during my late illness. And am glad to be able to get back for these few days.

A few times I have been lonesome at times, as there were so few ministers in the House, but you have kindly listened to my words delivered a few times along religious lines, and so often have showed me kindness, more than I had a right to expect. Gentlemen, I thank you for your courtesies, so often extended to me.

My age and health reminds me that my services to my people of every standing in the great State of Texas are closing. I have tender sympathy and feelings of kindness to you all.

When your sunshine begins to get dim, and your hearing of the bells of life that have wrung out in your life begin to grow dim, may there dawn on you the light and joy of a better world.

J. H. FISHER.

Newcastle, Texas.

REMARKS OF HON. W. T. SAVAGE

The following address, delivered by Hon. W. T. Savage of Dallas, was ordered printed in the Journal:

Mr. Speaker and Members of the House:

We are now coming to the close of this Session, this being my sixteenth Session during the last six years. There are a few in this House with whom I have served during the entire period. Quite a number more with whom I have served for four years and with this Membership during the Regular and this, the Fourth Called Session.

During this period, as most of you know, I have represented the most populous district in this State. Dallas, one of the largest counties; Rockwall, the smallest county, and Kaufman County being a middle-sized county. There have been three Senators representing different counties in my district, and the district is nearly as populous as two Congressional districts.

For more than ten years the people of the State of Texas have been planning for a Texas Centennial. I was born in Texas, and during all of this period I have been interested in the affairs of the great State of Texas. At this time, I wish to thank the Members of this Legislature who assisted me and voted for the Centennial bill creating the Texas Centennial Commission, during the Second Called Session. Since the enactment of said law the Texas Centennial Commission has worked diligently, and we have published to the world that we proposed to have a Centennial. Said Commission, in compliance with said law, designated Dallas as the central Centennial City. Thereafter the City of Dallas signed an agreement with said Centennial Commission, and the people of Dallas voted a bond issue of three million dollars for the purpose of carrying out the agreed proposition.

This Special Session was called as one of its purposes the raising of necessary revenue and making proper appropriation for the conducting of the Texas Centennial. As other measures had been previously considered, it was not the desire of the Centennial Commission or the sponsors of proposed bills to delay consideration of other bills submitted, so our bills were not hastily presented.

In our efforts to be fair to those upon whom this special tax was being levied, full and fair hearings were given before the Committee on Revenue and Taxation. During the last four days, our bills raising the revenue was under consideration in this House, but under the circumstances it was not possible to pass it.

Let me assure those who co-operated with us in the consideration of this bill that we very much appreciate their kindness. We have no ill-feeling for those who opposed our bill, but I very much fear that there will be no Texas Centennial, because certainly Dallas alone cannot raise the funds and conduct a Centennial for the entire State of Texas, and I am sure that many of you would not desire this to be a Dallas Centennial.

Now, my friends, in closing, let me say that I have enjoyed all of my legislative work, and that I have tried to deal fairly in all matters under consideration. I have considered it an honor to serve as a Member of the House of Representatives, and have at all times tried to render faithful service. I shall watch with interest future consideration by the Legislature of all matters affecting the welfare of the State of Texas. Best wishes to our Speaker, each and every Member of this House, and all employees.

ADDRESS BY HON. F. C. WEINERT

Mr. Stinson moved that Hon. F. C. Weinert be invited to address the House at this time.

The motion prevailed.

Hon. F. C. Weinert then addressed the House, which remarks, on motion of Mr. Stinson, were ordered printed in the Journal.

ADDRESS BY HON. T. H. MCGREGOR

Mr. Graves moved that Mr. McGregor be invited to address the House at this time.

The motion prevailed.

Mr. McGregor then addressed the House.

ADDRESS BY HON. BEN CATHEY

Mr. Cathey, being recognized by the Speaker, addressed the House, as follows, which remarks were ordered printed in the Journal:

Mr. Speaker, Lady and Gentlemen of the House: The Fourth Called Session of the Forty-third Legislature is about to come to a close. It is with some feeling of regret that many of us will not return in January to the Session of the Forty-fourth Legislature, and as for me there is a feeling of sadness when I understand that the four Members, Judge Harman, Judge Goodman, Judge Vaughan, and also Senator Weinert, who was a Member of the State Senate and served as a Senator at the same time that the other three gentlemen and myself served in the Thirty-first and Thirty-second Legislatures. I served with these men when I had not a gray hair in my head. I only wish for them what I wish for every Member of this House, that their last days may be their best days, and when the evening sun of their life is sinking over the western hill that it will go down in peace, surrounded by their friends and those who are nearest and dearest to them.

Mr. Speaker, lady and gentlemen of the House, we have had many stormy days and still more stormy hours. Some of us have been prone to forget the admonition of our fathers and mothers, control our tempers as we should, yet I trust that there is not a Member of this House who holds any ill feeling against any other Member. I know that I do not, and I shall only cherish the fondest recollection of having served with them in a law-making body of this great State, but I want to say to you lady and gentlemen of the House that we all leave with the very kindest feeling and the highest regard for the Hon. Coke Stevenson, who has so ably presided over this House during its Regular and Called Sessions of the Forty-third Legislature. No State or no Nation has had a greater presiding officer than Coke Stevenson. I challenge any man, if he is honest, to sit for six, eight, ten weeks, or as long as he might like, in front of the Speaker's stand, and be able to say by the treatment of Coke Stevenson to the Members of this House, just who voted for him and who did not.

A friend of mine, not long go, said to me, "I tried to get you to vote for Coke Stevenson for Speaker." I replied that I was obligated to the other man, and that I had not done anything since I had been a Member of the Forty-third Legislature that I was as glad of as the fact that I did not vote for Coke Stevenson as Speaker of the House. He said, "please tell me why." I said, "because, if I had voted for him I would never have known the bigness and the greatness of the man." No matter where I go, and whether I ever return to this House as a Member or a visitor, I shall always cherish the fondest feeling for Speaker Stevenson and his noble wife.

Now, to you who might still hold some little feeling against someone in the House; some little feeling of dislike—I want to beg of you now in our closing hours, let that feeling go with you to the grave. If you have those feelings bear them beneath the tranquil sand of bygone days, and plant over their smouldering ashes beautiful flowers of love, tenderness, charity, and forgiveness.

My friends, I thank you for your attention, and bid you now a pleasant farewell.

BEN CATHEY.

(Pending the enrolling of House bills, Mr. Lotief occupied the Chair, temporarily.)

(Speaker in the Chair.)
